

U.S. DUES & U.N. REFORM

DEMOCRATS & REPUBLICANS

These bipartisan leaders agree that cutting funding won't promote much needed change

America needs the United Nations to help make our world more secure and peaceful. To realize its full potential, the United Nations badly needs reform and constructive American leadership. We support the call for major reforms of the United Nations system, and urge America's leaders to work even harder to build international support for this critical agenda. But America cannot afford to cut off funding for the United Nations at a time when our nation and the world need it more than ever.
